Cancellation fees will be covered if beyond the employee's control. When advance payments are made, the employee must adequately account for (i.e., substantiate) his/her actual expenses within a reasonable period (i.e., within five (5) days) of the expenses being paid or incurred. If the advance payments exceed the employee's actual expenses, s/he must return the excess payment within a reasonable period (i.e., within five (5) days) after the expenses are paid or incurred. Failure to return any excess payment within a reasonable period may result in disciplinary action, and the excess amount shall be reflected as compensation to the employee on his/her annual W-2 form.

In order to substantiate an expense, the employee must provide the Superintendent with a completed professional travel reimbursement form in which s/he describes each expense at or near the time s/he had it, along with documentary evidence (such as receipts, cancelled checks, and/or bills) of the employee's travel or other business-related expense. Documentary evidence must show the amount, date, place, and essential character of the expense. For example, a hotel receipt must contain the following information: name and location of the hotel; dates the employee stayed there; and separate amounts for charges such as lodging, meals, and telephone calls. Similarly, a restaurant receipt must contain: name and location of the restaurant; number of people served; and date and amount of the expense. If an employee has any questions concerning what constitutes appropriate documentary evidence, s/he should ask the Superintendent.
